

Creating An Environment for Collaboration

Today's extended, mobile enterprises are characterized by project teams who are distributed and global. Whether it's bringing a product to market or solving a client's problem, these teams require a secure, shared digital workspace that enables better information access and collaboration to meet a common goal. For most firms, collaboration is not streamlined by technology, but rather complicated by a series of siloed tools – email, calendaring, project management and archiving, for example. The proliferation of these technologies in recent years has only made it more difficult for knowledge workers to find the information they need, when they need it.

Paragon Solutions can provide you with the planning, design, development and integration to create winning collaboration environments and leverage the assets you have already made in many collaborative technologies.

Paragon's Collaboration Solutions

Strategy Roadmap

Paragon's Roadmap to Optimization® establishes the feasibility and scope of your integrated collaboration solution and stages a practical migration path of incremental initiatives to begin realizing business benefits. The Roadmap encompasses the process, people and technology implications of an implementation plan, making it an actionable strategy for both business and IT stakeholders.

Integration

Paragon's systems integration expertise is applied to designing and implementing collaboration solutions to deliver an environment that makes sense for your organization. Our solutions include our own custom-developed components and incorporate the best-of-breed of products such as portals, content management, search and information infrastructure products and services.

Paragon is partnered with leading product vendors to provide comprehensive support developing an integrated and effective content and collaboration environment that enables your knowledge workers to find and share information securely and efficiently. Leveraging your technology assets, Paragon can support familiar desktop productivity tools for collaboration, content management, enterprise search, business forms, process automation, and business intelligence. When coupled with a robust information infrastructure, we can bring you advanced solutions to help archive, manage, protect, and back up your content.

Microsoft SharePoint/ECM Integration

Many firms have adopted the ease of use and accessibility of Microsoft's SharePoint product suite and are now looking to integrate it with a more robust enterprise content management environment. Paragon's enterprise architecture and integration experience will deliver a complete solution that provides the user facility of the SharePoint products with the control of an ECM environment.

Benefits of Paragon's Collaboration Solutions

Paragon can build a collaborative environment to meet the needs of your organization and provide the following benefits:

- ▶ Unified Interaction – Use a collaborative workspace that unites geographically dispersed teams yet enables centralized management for the task at hand.
- ▶ Streamlined Workflow – Deploy the technologies to support people-driven processes and workflow.
- ▶ Increased Productivity – Provide access to the information and people needed to get the job done.
- ▶ Lower Total Cost of Ownership – Consolidate siloed applications into a single collaborative platform.
- ▶ Leverage Existing Applications – Seamlessly integrate with other business applications to maximize value.
- ▶ Improved Security – Protect your firm's intellectual property by sharing content and documents in a more secure, controlled environment.

Let Paragon show you how we are helping companies create a comprehensive collaborative infrastructure and Improving the Way Work Gets Done™ in shared environments.
